Education Ignites The Flame To Success

By: Luwaisor Fitial

Education lights up our flame to success by helping us learn everything we'll need for our future. Education is the main reason we're able to make it through middle school and high school. Education can help us understand how to be successful, how to help each other if we ever need help, and how to be kind and respectful to ourselves and others. Education is our guidance through the world.

Education helps me get smarter by teaching me how to do math, ELA, Science, Social Studies, and Physical Activities. All of the things we are learning in school will really help us in the future. Education will help us get a job, pay our taxes, and be helpful to our family and friends. In order for us to get our jobs we must have the knowledge about everything we have learned in school. Education really helps us get smarter, learn more, know more, and do more.

We don't only need education to be successful, we also need some friends. When we all grow up and get a job like owning a company, becoming a chef, or becoming the president of the United States, we'll always need someone to be there for us when we need to express our emotions. We all need at least someone that we can hug when we're feeling sad, someone who we can talk to about our problems, and we also need someone who we can talk to about exciting news. Education is not the only way you can be successful in life, friendship is a very important thing that everyone has to experience in their life, friendship is something that we all have to be good at to get a job and lots of friends.

We build ourselves by facing many challenges in life. Nobody should go through challenges in life but that is something that everyone has to go through in order to build their character. Never judge anyone based on how they look, sound, or anything about them because they might be facing challenges while you're judging them. At this moment someone could be going through their challenges right now, facing challenges is a very important part in life because by facing challenges you will learn many things that will help you in the future. Everybody has had to go through or will go through a challenge to really build their character and make them understand that they've learned something from their challenge.

Goals. Goals are the reason people get successful in life, they set their goals for them to work hard and accomplish it. For example small goals, small goals are the goals you set when you're young, an example for small goals are " I wanna promote to 7th grade" and the things I'd have to do in order to get promoted to 7th grade is get good grades. If your goal is to become a doctor, your goal is called a long term goal. A long term goal is a goal that takes years to accomplish, for example I wanna become an archaeologist but it will take me many years because I must go to college and learn many things about archaeology after that I must find a company that I could work for and then get my materials and everything that I need to start my adventure. Goals are a very important part of becoming successful.
